Electrical Sand to Attack Clouds Over the Atlantic

Scientists to Test Theory That Might Rout Fog Over Harbor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—As a test of the theory that electrical sand can dispel, clouds and cause rain, it is planned to attack passes of storm clouds over the Atlantic Ocean, it was learned today. Incidentally, it may prove possible to clear New York Harbor of fog, as well as to scatter the smoke screen of an enemy battleship.

Wilber D. Bancroft, professor of physical chemistry at Cornell University and Dr. L. Francis Warren, who have been experimenting in dispersing fog and clouds with electrically charged sand, believe that their success at McCook Field, Dayton, O., with the aid of the Army Air Service, has opened a wide and interesting field of speculation. They have been very careful to make sure of their ground.

"If electrically charged sand discharged from an airplane at McCook field can destroy clouds it would seem to me possible, and perhaps commercially feasible," said Prof. Bancroft. "To clear New York Harbor of fog, thereby facilitating greatly the movement of ocean liners up the bay, expediting passenger and freight traffic and the delivery of mail."

"If the development of these experiments establish that a smoke cloud can be dispersed by electrically charged sand and an airplane flying over chimneys has already succeeded in breaking up clouds with electrically charged sand, what may happen to the smoke screen sent out to protect battleships from hostile aircraft?"

"If ordinary fogs can be wiped out by this manner it is not at least within the realm of possibility that, provided it could be commercially feasible, airplanes and captive balloons operated from motor trucks might not disperse the heavy fogs that lie over London?"

Prof. Bancroft does not say that any of those marvelous developments will follow the success of the experiments, but it is hoped that this new idea will have far reaching consequences.

"A few years ago," he said, "I should have scouted the theory that the London fogs could be dispersed, but I think it could be said now that it is within the limits of possibility that these fogs could be handled, provided such a project ever becomes commercially feasible."

But behind the fascinating problem

Ghosts of Glamis Castle

BY MILTON BRONNER

(Special to The Bee.)

LONDON, Feb. 17.—If Lady Elizabeth Bowles-Lyon, who will soon be the bride of the Duke of York, and may some day become Queen of England, moves to Buckingham Palace, she will carry with her the specter of Glamis Castle, ancient Scottish home of her ancestors.

It will add another chapter to the ever-growing fairy tale which has become legend. Should Lady Elizabeth become dreamy and go off into a reverie or have strange fits of absorption, her friends will blame it on the old castle.

For it's a haunted place peopled by ghosts of dead kings. It has secrets that go back to the fourteenth century. It was there that the Macbeth of Shakespeare killed Banquo and King Duncan.

But the secret that is most often imparted, although it is supposed to be known to only three persons at a time—the holder of the title of Earl of Strathmore, his heir and the factor who takes care of the place—concerns one Duke of Brunsfiche.

He was a mighty card player. One Sunday night he insisted upon his game. None of his fellows would play. So he retired to his card chamber, vowing he would play with someone, even if it were the devil.

Soon came a loud knocking at the castle gates and a stranger wrapped in a red cloak demanded admission. He was conducted to the master's card room. Together they played all night. Shortly afterwards the earl died. Then thirty servants heard sounds in the card room. The earl's ghost was doomed to play forever with the devil. The door to the room was bolted, barred and closed forever.

But there is another yarn about the secret room which goes back still further in time.

In ancient Scotland rival noble families and their retainers were always at war with each other. One dark night the leader of one of these clans, with all his men, came padding through Glamis Castle for shelter. They were seeking to escape from their enemies.

The earl admitted them and led them into a deep dungeon chamber where he said they would be safe from harm. The earl's men were searched. The giant locks were turned; bolts were fastened; bars put up. The little band of fleeing warriors were penned up forever. The earl had likewise been their enemy. The room where they met their slow death by hunger and thirst also became their inviolate tomb. It was one of several dungeons always kept locked.

But which one it was—that is the secret of Glamis.

Schoolfield Team Loses; Commended For Clean Game

(Special to The Bee.)

GREENVILLE, S. C., Feb. 16.—Fighting until the last minute of play the Schoolfield team was defeated in the class A consolation game tonight by Highland Park of Charlotte 15 to 10. The Virginians got away to a good start and battled until the whistle but were unable to stem the tide of victory from the North Carolinians. This defeat means the elimination of the Schoolfield team from the class A events of the Southern Textile Tournament. Monaghan and Woodside, Greenville aggregations, go into the finals tomorrow for the class A trophy. Victor and Dunham were eliminated today. In the class B events, Schoolfield won the right to go into the finals by defeating the Rockhill team of South Carolina, 19 to 17, in the first event of the Virginians showed their mettle in the class B consolation match, walking away with the Whitney team, team of Spartanburg, by the count of 13 to 6.

The girls' team from Schoolfield have more than offset any disappointment that may have been experienced at the reverses suffered by the boys team. The class B girls from Schoolfield tomorrow morning in the Greer-Judson match. The class A girls from Schoolfield go into the finals tonight with the girls from Monaghan. The class B boys from Schoolfield meet Whitman in the consolation today. The Virginians have attracted much favorable comment by their clean playing and by the splendid appearance they present on the floor. The party numbers more than half a hundred and their yells have been a feature of the two days' play. The results of the second day follow: Boys Event. ## Pretty New Raiment for the Small Girls

Little girls' spring models from Paris are blossoming out in the show windows.

For "best dresses," tulle or chiffon velvet—usually in shell pink, with little trimmings—are indicated. For less formal young girls, emerald green are contrasted in frocks with irregular panels or bands of one shade or the other.

But the diminutive lingerie dresses are most fascinating. They are of triple voile, linen, organza or crepe-de-chine, in all the delicate pastel shades, trimmed with embroidered dots, net frills or pin tucks.

TILL EVENING TIME.

Light of the Years!
The way is all unknown—
Make plain my path to me,
Give me a faith serene—
The end I cannot see!
Deepen my trust! Brighten my hope!
Ere comes the evening time—
O Light of the Years!

Light of the Years!
Give me a vision clear
To see and know the right!
A courage that it strong!
To do it with my might!
Quicken my powers! Enlarge my mind!
Ere comes the evening time—
O Light of the Years!

Light of the Years!
In midst of life's hard fight,
And its strife and stress,
When burdened oft with care,
Thy presence soothes distress—
Strengthen my soul and nerve my will
To till till evening time—
O Light of the Years!

Grape Business To Be Reviewed In Fresno Fete

FRESNO, Feb. 16.—"From the Garden of Eden to the Garden of the Sun" will be the theme of the annual Raisin Day celebration in Fresno April 26, when the fiftieth anniversary of the planting of the first grape vine in the famed San Joaquin Valley is celebrated in Fresno, with every community in the valley participating.

The theme will be developed with eight allegorical floats depicting in chronological order the development of the grape as food and drink for mankind, from the dawn of the first day in the Garden to the present era, when many claim the grape is really coming into its own as a fruit with a wonderful future.

ATTRACTS THOUSANDS.

Fresno's Raisin Day celebration has great significance for the people of California. It brings thousands of visitors to the metropolis of the valley each year, but to the residents of the section that justly deserves the title of "Garden of the Sun" it is a celebration of hope, of the winning of a competency from what once was a barren waste, because the grape has brought to the Anjoquin its hope for the future and has made it one of the greatest valleys in the world.

The queen who will rule over the one-day carnival is picked from the district which during the year before has the heaviest tonnage of raisins: the choice of the queen from the contestants in this particular community is then decided by the residents of the community, and it is considered a signal honor to be chosen as the presiding head of this great one-day festival.

REPRESENTATIVE FETE.

About two months before the festival a great committee representing each county in the valley is picked by civic bodies in each city, and this committee governs the activities of the day.

The theme for this year was suggested by George Anjoquin, head of the Armenian Students' Association of Fresno, and provides that the great pageant, which is the chief event of every Raisin Day celebration will present in simple allegory the real story of the grape.

Every city in the valley will have allegorical floats in the parade, and doubtless the fact that T. F. Eisen planted the first grapevine in the valley in 1813 will add a golden jubilee touch to the efforts of all the communities.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN—NO. 40

DO WOMEN LOVE?

By Ruth Agnes Abell

"AND you were expecting me to defend myself," Kate went on coolly, while Latham, across the table, eyed her angrily.

"But I'm not going to," she continued, "because, after all, that you say may be true, (further than I have known until now.)

"Possibly I have led you on—but I've done it without realizing," her tone was low, intense.

"Every woman realizes!" Latham's words came explosively.

"Don't try to tell me," he continued, "that any woman doesn't know when she is making a fool of a man! No matter how intelligent he is, no man is equal to woman in matters of love. Women were born for it. Men were born to be victims of it!"

"The simplest little country girl is an artist at it," he sought a word—"at luring! and merciless. Women are ruthless in love. Men fall for their talk of romance and of ideals. They haven't any! Women are not romantic! They're mercenary."

"Men are the romantic fools," Latham finished bitterly.

"And it isn't romance, it isn't genuine love, then, that makes mothers of women and sustains them during crises? It isn't!" Kate's voice broke.

Latham was unmoved. He watched Kate's struggle for emotional control as coolly as he might have watched a piece of fine machinery carrying out its purpose. He was interested but utterly unresponsive.

"Sustains!" his tone was bitter. "Modern women haven't any sustaining qualities! They're a fickle and undependable as an April day! Instead of courage they have cunning!"

"Why, take this girl—this Alice you've been talking about. You think she's tremendously interested in something, that she has a purpose in asking your aid, that possibly there is a man she loves and who, for some reason, needs her help. Suppose it is

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1923
UNDER OUR NOSES.

When Abraham Lincoln finished delivering his Gettysburg address, no one applauded. The 20,000 in his audience merely exclaimed: "Oh!"

In surprise at the brevity of his speech. Accustomed to political orations, they had settled themselves for an uncomfortably long-winded talk.

Such is the recollection of Mrs. Rebecca C. D. Long, of Somerville, Mass. She was raised in Gettysburg, and heard Lincoln's famous address when she was 12.

None in Lincoln's audience realized at the time that he was hearing an "immortal place of oratory"—and probably the finest composition ever penned in the English language—according to many competent critics.

It takes the perspective of time to distinguish the truly great from the mediocre or the great.

Mrs. of the really great people and events of our generation are not getting much attention. Later generations will appreciate them at their full worth and will assign them their right places in history.

The Wright brothers' first flight in the airplane will be remembered as long as the World War, possibly longer, on into time until their exploit becomes legendary and distorted. Their invention, which enabled man to move in the air instead of confined to the earth's surface, is a step forward in evolution the same as the first fish that grew fins into appendages or crabs legs so it could crawl on land or fins into wings so it becomes a bird. Yes, it is the perspective of time to distinguish real greatness. That's why so few of the great get recognition until long after their death.

After this long introductory tirade, Abraham Lincoln is slow to his feet—and as I have said in 256 words, the immortal Gettysburg Address.

... that human nature for you, that long introduction by the chairman. And no doubt, when he got home he confided to his family that he made the better speech of the two. Well, possibly he did, at that, though the odds are heavily against it, especially since great thought never has itself in a snowstorm of words.

Ships Report Heroic Battle With Storms

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The daring at the crew of the Italian freighter Moncenisio reported in radio messages today as ice coated trans-Atlantic boats brought to port stories of severe storms and suffering.

Four dauntless craft, fighting heavy seas, searched the Atlantic 500 miles off the Virginia capes for the Italian freighter Moncenisio reported sinking yesterday with her crew of 38.

The steamer Carplaka, enroute to Havre from New Orleans, the tanker John Worthington from Houston to England and two coast guard cutters sought the Moncenisio but reported at dusk that they had found no trace of her.

Wireless reports from the Moncenisio were reported to have ended with a frantic SOS yesterday afternoon and belief was expressed by mariners that she had gone down. Severe cold weather was reported from the rescue ships and it was doubtful they said that the Moncenisio's crew if in life boats, could survive. The schooner Friendship, with a cargo of lumber for New York was located in a sinking condition today off Oregon later 90 miles south of Virginia Beach by the Coast Guard Cutter Manning.

The Manning reported that the seas were unusually heavy and it was impossible to take off the Friendship's crew of 25. The Manning was standing by, however, awaiting the first opportunity for rescue. Captain C. K. Martin of the Clara, Maine, commands the Friendship.

The British auxiliary schooner Dorin which, after many trials escaped from the severe storms off the New England coast last month, was abandoned on the New Jersey coast and her crew rescued by the Lampart and Holt steamers. The Varsari arrived tonight with the Dorin's men. The Dorin was in the turn trade between the Bahamas and St. Pierre, Miquelon.

The guard cutters continued their search for two masted schooner reported adrift off the island yesterday. The schooner, it was reported, apparently had been abandoned, she had not been found today. The steamer Araguaya from Bermuda, her bridge wrecked and forward cock badly damaged, arrived today. Her commander said they had been battered by north-west gales for several days.

Ireland's New Problems Are Of Boundaries

DUBLIN, Feb. 14.—Two important questions arising under the Anglo-Irish Treaty have yet to be dealt with, the clauses on finance and the Ulster boundary. Material troubles have prevented these questions from coming up for definite settlement, but the Free State government is planning to tackle them both in the near future.

It will be remembered that the Irish delegates to London undertook that Ireland pay its share of the war debt and of war pensions, and the sum payable was to be fixed after inquiry as to how much Ireland ought to pay, allowances being made in Ireland's favor for over-taxation in the past. The payment of from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 pounds sterling in compensation for the victims of outrages will involve the Irish budget in a deficit, and the amount payable to England under the treaty will add to the difficulty. It is accepted as certain that the Irish Free State must float a loan and start with a national debt. Until now taxation, Irish government taking over the money so raised. But this year will see the first Irish budget and the taxation will all be imposed and collected by the Free State.

On the subject of finance the government is optimistic. It is attempting immediately the final settlement of the land question, which may involve as much as 70,000,000 pounds sterling. The Dutch Land Purchase Acts transferred from the landlords to tenant proprietors the greater part of the land in Ireland, but the job was left unfinished, and all over Ireland, side by side, with farmers who own their farms and are paying for them in annual instalments less than the rent, are some thousands of farmers still paying the old rents. The government now proposes to make land purchases complete and compulsory. Tenant must buy and every tenant must buy.

As regards the Ulster boundary, preparations are being made for the appointment of the commission to fix the boundary of the future Northern Ireland. The treaty prescribes that the boundaries be readjusted in accordance with the wishes of the inhabitants, but does not determine how the decision will be reached. The decision will depend on the area taken into inquiry. If the voting were by counties, both Tyrone and Fermanagh would be undoubtedly voted for the future Free State. With similar areas as voting units, parts would stay with Belfast and parts with Dublin.

The treaty brought some difference of opinion between the British and Irish delegates as to what it meant, the latter contending that it meant the transference of large areas, and the former urging that all they meant was the boundaries of the Free State to consist of one representative of the Free State and one of the Northern government and one of the British government. But the delegates have from the first declined to be bound by any provision of the treaty in this regard, as they were not parties to it.

The Free State government has a staff working on the whole boundary question, which issues statements periodically pointing out the anomalies of the present situation, which gives rise to constant military powder-puffs. Many districts yench deny it.

Whichever view is taken of the meaning of the treaty two important towns—Drogheda and Fermanagh—are left out. They are both right on the edge of the border, and both have Nationalist majorities. Let it be unlikely that the Northern government would without strong compulsion, part with either.

CHANGE POLICY AS TO DECIDING TENNIS TITLE

(By The Associated Press.)
LONDON, Feb. 16.—Official announcement was made today by the Lawn Tennis Association of recommendation by the council that the world's lawn tennis title henceforth be not decided by play at the Wimbledon Tournament.

There has been a long standing dispute between the United States and Great Britain as to the method for determining the world's tennis championship. The United States was not party to the agreement which gave England the right in perpetuity for holding the world championship, while England has refused to recognize any but a Wimbledon victor as champion, irrespective of whether he was an amateur or professional.

KLAN KLEAGLE IS ARRAIGNED

(By The Associated Press.)
SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 16.—M. J. Corbin, member of the Klu Klux Klan, was arraigned in police court today charged with conspiracy and conspiracy to defraud. Corbin was arrested at the residence of his wife, Mrs. Corbin, at Springfield, O., on the charge of conspiracy to defraud. The case was continued after the attorney had agreed to set Corbin's bond at $1,000. It will be furnished, it is said.

Corbin was arrested here Wednesday night when police raided the headquarters of the Klan in the County while the organization was in full session. Fourteen men were arrested, but they were allowed to go after police had taken their names.

It is claimed by Corbin and his attorneys that the raid came as the result of certain persons' desire to possess the records and to destroy the organization in a drive to destroy it.

The More Children the Better

(Special to The Bee.)
LYNN, Mass., Feb. 17.—Ordinarily, it goes thus:
LANDLORD: "Any children?"
APPLICANT (meekly): "Yes, we have one."

LANDLORD: "I never take children."
But Lynn is setting a new example. Here it goes thus:
LANDLORD: "Any children?"
APPLICANT (meekly): "Sorry, but we have four."

LANDLORD: "Can't let you have the place. We never rent to families with less than six children."
Mrs. Vincent E. Gregg is responsible for the new plan. She has bought five houses and is negotiating for the purchase of others in order that the parents of large families may have homes. Rental advertisements of her properties state that families with less than six children need not apply.

Mrs. Gregg has won the name "the little mother of Lynn" through her work as head of the Lynn Neighborhood House, a gathering place for hoodlums and a gathering place for children from the city's melting pot district.

Recently, in connection with her work, she ran across the mother of a family of seven, discouraged and broken-hearted because she could not find a home. Landlords all looked upon her children as criminals, she said, and she had been turned away from place after place until so wearied that she could not tramp farther she had given up in despair.

It set Mrs. Gregg to thinking. She began investing her money in houses and advertised for big-family tenants.

More than 100 persons answered her first ad. In the first three cottages she rented, the tenants had a total of 23 children. She said she "receive letters almost every day"—pathetic letters asking aid—from heads of households. Mrs. Gregg says.

Landlords who turn children away from their houses are inhuman. It is a criminal practice which society must correct before its results are felt throughout the nation. Mrs. Gregg in 1917 founded the

MRS. VINCENT E. GREGG, "THE LITTLE MOTHER OF LYNN"

Neighborhood House in Lynn. It is a big, modern house exclusively for children, who learn sewing, dressmaking and many other useful occupations. Last year 1400 children of 34 nationalities attended the classes

Pollard and Mrs. Richardson Were In Struggle—West

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 16.—Testimony today as one of the chief witnesses in the trial of Thomas Pollard prominent young man who is charged with the murder of his former stenographer, Mrs. Theima Haman Richardson, J. Mow West, an eye witness to the shooting, told the jury that Mrs. Richardson was shot during a struggle with Pollard on the lawn of the latter's home.

West said he took Mrs. Richardson to the automobile while she went into the apartment. She was in the apartment for several minutes, he said, finally emerging preceded by Pollard, who walked down the steps and stopped at the edge of the porch. West testified and called to Pollard to come back. When the latter refused, the witness said, Mrs. Richardson stepped from the porch and ran to Pollard, and he started toward them.

Before he reached the struggling pair on the lawn, West testified, he saw a flash which was followed by the report of a pistol. Mrs. Richardson crumpled to the ground, mortally wounded. West declared he did not see a pistol in the hand of either Pollard or the woman during the struggle. He said he did not know who had the pistol at the time the shot rang out.

The witness said he attempted to leave the scene immediately after the shooting but that Pollard requested that he remain. He said he and Pollard then went into the house leaving the body on the lawn. He admitted having gone to the country for Mrs. Richardson on the afternoon of December 11, and having driven her to the Pollard residence in his automobile. He said he did not know what transpired in the Pollard apartment prior to the struggle on the lawn, explaining that he remained in the automobile while Mrs. Richardson went into the house.

West, who was arrested on the night of the shooting, was an accessory but later released, testified today as a witness offered by the court. He was not under subpoena to appear for either prosecution or defense, but was under bond of $500 as a material witness in the case. He is subject to cross-examination by counsel for both sides. West had not completed his testimony when court adjourned late today.

West's testimony was the feature of the day's proceedings although a number of other witnesses were offered by the prosecution.

Mrs. S. Parke Regester, who lived here in the apartment below the Pollard flat, told the jury that she heard a woman's voice in the vestibule of Pollard's home saying "Let me go; let me go." A few minutes later, she said she saw Pollard standing on the lawn and a young woman on the steps. The woman, Mrs. Regester said, threw out her hands and cried "shoot me."

Jerry Jones, a neighbor testified that as he entered his home he saw an object lying on Pollard's lawn and discovered it was the body of Mrs. Richardson. He said he asked Pollard what was the matter and the latter replied "I have shot somebody."

Miss Alma Strader, who lived in the neighborhood, told the jury that she passed the Pollard residence a few minutes after the shooting. She said she saw a dark object lying on the lawn and a young woman on the steps. The woman, Mrs. Strader said, she offered assistance which was abruptly refused.

LARGE STILL SEIZED
BRISTOL, Va., Feb. 16.—A large still seized tonight by Sheriff Joseph Thomas of Sullivan county Tenn. in a raid staged in Cardon Hollow near this city.

Combs is being held in the local jail. A small quantity of whiskey and about 1,000 gallons of mash was destroyed by the raiders, six in number.

Woman in Tears Tells Story Of Plea For Honor

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Lillian S. Raizen, weeping, collapsed today spent four hours on the witness stand at her trial on charges of having murdered Dr. Abraham Glickstein in Brooklyn a year ago.

She told a halting story of a woman's betrayal, a woman's anguish, a woman's shot—a halting tale drawn from trembling lips at the terse command of court to "stop crying" and "speak so the jury can hear."

Then, too, Mr. Charles Raizen, the defendant's husband who testified for her yesterday, and members of the Glickstein family, seated among the spectators. Several times Supreme Court Justice Cressy was forced to adjourn court until the defendant could regain her composure.

When she was testifying as to her knowledge of the shooting and during her cross examination, Mrs. Raizen pressed a handkerchief so weep inaudibly.

"Talk louder—you can talk louder if you want to," almost shouted the judge. "If you want the jury to hear your story, you had better talk and stop crying," he repeated in a few minutes.

At the conclusion of her cross examination, Mrs. Raizen, who had been "lifted into the witness stand," her head aching, was lifted from it. The morning was spent by defense counsel Albert Conway, leading his client through her story of having been attacked by Dr. Glickstein while a young girl, of other attacks after her engagement to Raizen and of his "hypnotic" power over her. Mrs. Raizen said Mrs. Glickstein sympathized with her "because she suffered, too." She added the physician once had promised to marry her after he put his wife in an asylum.

After denying that she had sewed the revolver in her fur piece in order to deepen the sound of the shot, Mrs. Raizen was asked if she had said she had an "urge to kill Dr. Glickstein." "Oh, that's a terrible urge," such an unhealed they thought, she replied.

"The doctor had my honor," shouted Mrs. Raizen. "I wanted it back and he wouldn't give it to me—and I took it."

Postal Aviators Peace-Time Ages

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Aviation "ages" did not become extinct with the termination of the World War. The Post Office Department boasts of several "ages" today. The age of pilots, in respect to the number of miles flown in the air mail service, is J. H. Knight, of Omaha, Nebraska, who, according to the official records, has flown 146,729 miles.

Closely pressing him for honors is E. G. Leonard, of Cleveland, Ohio, who has covered 142,754 miles in transporting mail. Both pilots are veterans in the transportation service of the Air Mail Service.

Knight became a pilot on June 2, 1919, and Leonard joined the service on September 19, 1919. Knight flies the Central Division route from Iowa City to Rock Springs, Wyoming, and Leonard wings his way over mountains and plains on the Eastern Division from New York to Iowa City. Both fliers saw service with the American Expeditionary Forces during the war.

A Plain Statement!

It has recently come to me that some who oppose my candidacy for the State Senate have continued to circulate the rumor that I propose to annex certain territory to the City of Danville. I had thought that such a rumor would be its own denial—and still think so when the facts are called to the attention of the thinking people of this district.

- 1—Such a thought never entered my mind.
- 2—I know of no one who is favorable to or has suggested such annexation; certainly I do not favor it.
- 3—Under the Constitution and laws of Virginia the legislature of Virginia has absolutely no authority to enact a law annexing territory to Danville or any other City. Such question is one solely for the Circuit Court of Pittsylvania County. Can be decided by that Court and that Court only; presided over by a judge to be named by the Governor; such judge to be remote from the territory affected.
- The Constitution of Virginia, Section 126, specifically prohibits the legislature from passing a law annexing any territory, or making any provision therefor to fit a special case.
- How then can I do what is charged to me? Is it not plain that such rumors are for vote getting only?
- 4—But in any event should there be any circumstance or law not known to me come before the legislature any measure having for its object the annexation of territory to Danville or tending to make annexation in any way less difficult, I should oppose it on the floor and vote against it

Why Joie Ray Is a Great Athlete

BY WALTER CAMP
(Copyright, 1923, By The Bee)

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Many are the theories that can be heard today wherever lovers of amateur sports rather than of the foundation of Joie Ray's greatness, his ability. A study of the records for the last two years, and particularly since he started his phenomenal successes of the winter, shows him to possess an unusual combination of characteristics.

Ray not only has the heart, speaking psychologically to run great races, but he has also the heart psychologically speaking, which makes for courage, pluck, confidence, stamina. He has the chest room that a distance runner needs, and he has the remarkable muscular development in the thighs which was characteristic of such sprinters as Duffy and Drew. This makes it possible for him to get on a pace without wobbling and put in his drive with steadiness and firmness, which, at the same time conserves his energy.

Ray's defense by Ritola was almost to be expected. The latter is a splendid runner. His 90 yard handicap was too great even for Ray who was only sixty yards behind him at the finish.

If it is true that Charlie Paddock will compete in the Pennsylvania relay it will be a great card for Philadelphia and, if, as rumored now, there is a chance of his appearing at the inter-collegiate, it will be to the interest taken in these, for it should be remembered that there has been a year of argument and speculation as to whether Paddock can, in competition in the East, repeat his remarkable sprinting done on the Pacific coast and in the Sandwich Islands. Every one is particularly anxious to have the speed merchant show his wares in competition with the flyers of the East.

A. A. U. officials and all authorities interested in the Paris Olympic games are today getting their shoulders to the wheel to develop, if possible, distance runners for the American team. And it is well that they are doing this because this has been a weakness recognizable and admitted in our men. It is late in the day to develop new and unknown men for such work but the effort will be well worth making for future results.

In view of Captain W. R. Milligan's announcement that he has entered his Oxford team in the Pennsylvania relay carnival two mile events, it is important that American remember that, although hope was expressed that an Oxford-Cambridge team would compete, the Oxford teams themselves have given us something to do in the past.

In 1914 Oxford sent a relay team to this carnival to run in the four mile event and the contest produced one of the greatest races that have ever been seen in any country. Jackson, the long-legged Oxonian, and Olympic 1500 meter champion entered the last relay slightly behind McCurdy of Penn. and the Englishman won in a terrific finish just by inches. In 1920 Oxford-Cambridge sent a combined team for the two mile event and not only won but set up a new world record of seven minutes fifty and two fifths seconds.

SAYS GREEKS "STRUCK" IN WAR WITH TURKS BECAUSE OF "ROTTEN GENERALSHIP"

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 16.—"The Greeks are sick of war. Food is scarce, prices are high, and almost everybody is in mourning for dead relatives and friends," said Tony Pappas, local restaurant proprietor, who has just returned from a seven months' visit with his mother in Tripoli.

"The Turks never defeated the Greek army, but the soldiers got sick of rotten generalship and poor management by staff officers and laid down their arms. They were not cowards, but, lacking food, clothing, ammunition and medical supplies at the front, they went on a general strike," declared Pappas.

"Premier Zaimis is very popular, and the people are well satisfied with the new revolutionary Government. Everyone is very grateful for the work of the American Red Cross during the Smyrna disaster. Without American aid, the plight of the Greek refugees is impossible to imagine."

One of Pappas's brothers was killed in the drive on Angora and another wounded. Pappas had to produce his discharge papers from the Three Hundred and Twenty-fourth artillery, with which he served overseas, to be exempted from conscription in the Greek army.

MISS STONE WEDS AN OFFICER IN COBLENZ

(By The Associated Press.)

COBLENZ, Feb. 16.—Miss Lanthier Virginia Stone, daughter of Colonel David L. Stone, American representative on the Rhineland Commission, and Lieutenant Mark A. Devine of the cavalry of San Francisco, were married here last night. The wedding was the culmination of a romance that began two years ago when the Lieutenant went to the rescue of Miss Stone when she was thrown from her horse. Lieutenant Devine is a crack horseman and the winner of many prizes at exhibitions that have been held in the Rhineland while the American troops were here.

MAKE CHURCH CONFORM TO GOLF HOODS, SAYS PASTOR

ARDMORE, Pa., Feb. 16.—Bury men who like to utilize part of the Sabbath for 18 holes or more of golf have found a champion in the Rev. Andrew J. Haughey, rector of St. Mary's Church.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—As Golf

Pro after Golf Pro arrives in these chilly latitudes from the southern tales of woe multiply. The burden of complaint of course relates to the cancellation of tournaments which the professionals had counted upon to carry them through the winter.

From testimony that has come to hand to date it would seem that the last persons to cancel these fading golf tournaments are those who attempted to organize them. Perhaps when the professional golfers' association looks into the matter it will find that the wrench in the Southern golf mechanism was thrown by the professionals themselves.

For indications are that the trouble relates almost exclusively to the discrepancy between the drawing power of the major and the minor star. We have said nothing to indicate that our players as Hagen, Hazen, Hutchins, and others approximately of the class are not having a pleasant not to say lucrative time in Dixie.

Since they are professionals and therefore out for all the money they can get it is by no means surprising that they should exist in exhibition fourness and the like in return for handsome fees whereas lesser lights must be content with the smaller returns derived from tournaments.

Again tournaments which fail to draw the blazing luminaries are most likely to fill the promoters thereof with chagrin so great and discouragement so profound as to cause them to withdraw from their projects, leaving the tournaments and incidentally, those who had expected to play in them flat.

The remedy, of course, is a community interest among the Guild of professional golfers which will, among other things, move them to proceed under such scheme as is implied in the motto of these United States—E pluribus Unum—one for all and all for one—to apply a popular, if not strictly accurate interpretation.

But this will come to pass? Yes, when the Taxicab driver waves away a tip, when a big league baseball club declares a general raise in salaries and when the Standard Oil reduces the price of Gasoline to 19 cents a gallon.

Impressions gathered at the current Dog Show in New York are substantiated to one great impression, which is that the average thoroughbred dog is not a very friendly beast.

Perhaps the restricted diet the unceasing maneuvering, combing and scouring they receive spoils their dispositions, or perhaps blue blood in the canine connotes Cantankerousness. However this may be, the fact remains that leaving the Westminster Kennel club exhibition at the Madison Square Garden your soul rejoices as the unkempt street mutts run up to you with amiable eyes and wagging tails.

MAIN STREET WINS TWO

Main street defeated Calvary in a close game by the score of 14 to 9. Both teams fought hard for the game but the superior team work of the larger Main street boys was too much for the Calvary team. Tate was high scorer for Main street, while Tuberville caged all four of Calvary's field goals.

The line up:
Main St. Pos. Calvary
Irvin Jordan Forward Tuberville
Tate Forward Ferguson
Farley Forward Deville
Ed. Jordan Center
Nance Guard Lea
Field goals: 1. Jordan 1; Tate 3; Farley 2; E. Jordan 1; Tuberville 1. 4 out of 5.

The Baptists defeated the Presbyterians in another close game by the score as the first game 14 to 9. Giles and Smith were the high point winners for their respective teams.

The line up:
Baptists Pos. Presbyterians
Kushmer Tuberville and Bass
Trundle Forward Hughes
Giles Forward Smith
Harrison Center Watson
Martin Guard J. D. Gwynn
Field goals: Trundle 2; Giles 1; Harrison 1; Smith 2; Hughes 1. 5 out of 5.

Main street defeated Mt. Vernon in another hard fought game by the score of 16 to 2. The Main street boys were making nearly every basket they shot at and guarded close, while the Mount Vernon boys were missing them quite regularly.

By winning this game Main street tied with Mt. Vernon for the league leadership. All of the Main street team played well. Ragland and Blair were Mt. Vernon's best.

The line up:
Mt. Vernon Pos. Main St.
Ragland Forward I. Jordan
Gwynn Forward Tate
Watson Forward Farley
Blair Center E. Jordan
Graveley Guard Nance

FILLED WITH TREASURES.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—A dispatch to the Exchange telegraph from Luxor explains that there are two chambers in the Pharaoh's tomb, the first containing the canopic sarcophagus and a chamber beyond filled with treasures, including a number of gilded chariots standing on their wheels.

The dispatch adds that the tomb has been closed for the official opening, which will take place next Sunday.

Cyclone Peters Beats Canadian Getting Two Falls

"Cyclone" Peters took two out of three falls from Walter Ross, Canadian last evening at Municipal Hall through superior knowledge of the wrestling game. Ross outweighed Peters twenty pounds, appearing much stronger, but only managed to get one fall. When the bout ended, Peters appeared to be as fresh as when the match started, while Ross was "all tuckered out."

By main strength and quickness, Ross started off fast time and again. Peters used many different kinds of holds, seemed often just on the verge of pinning his opponent's shoulders to the mat when, with a shove, the Canadian would come out, only to be caught again. Sometimes Ross would secure a good hold, but never was able to keep it long enough to secure a decision.

But when he was Peters in 35 minutes with a bar and body lock. The second fall went to the Canadian, in 15 minutes while the Scandinavian got the third and deciding fall in 23 minutes.

Ross' strength seemed superhuman at times; he showed little knowledge of the game, but he managed to make a good showing against Peters because of his muscular activities. Both men were agile enough, and frequently showed their ability to twist and squirm and roll, spinning out of holds and fighting rapidly, sparing for position, lighting and tripping. Ross' attitude took on that of a boxer at times; in fact he looked more the boxer on the mat than the wrestler.

However, he has a long record of wins on the mat and very few defeats. After the bout Peters announced that he was going to New York to go in training for an important match but would be ready for any summons for a bout here. It is hoped that another match can be arranged for next Friday night.

The crowd last night was the best that has attended any wrestling match here, showing that interest in wrestling is growing.

Because of the fact that there had been some dissatisfaction over the 15 minute limit for a bout, it was announced last night by Referee Stevens that the match would be a finish bout of three falls to be the winner. Stevens' decision was above criticism. The bout at times came mighty close to getting tough. Stevens warned the men several times to cut out the rough tactics, and he kept the men within the bounds all the way. His work has commanded no little praise.

There was but one preliminary match, and that was a fight between two amateur negro boxers, with emphasis on the word amateur. This last affair was a scream, keeping the house in an uproar.

The preliminary wrestling match was between Honeycutt of North Danville and Nordice of Charlotte. It was announced before the bout that if Honeycutt did not throw his opponent in 15 minutes the bout would go to the 30th Carolina. Not only did Honeycutt fail to throw his man but he had all he could do to keep from being thrown. Nordice was outwitted and 15 minutes fouled. Referee Peter Hager said he did not think a foul blow had been struck.

MAKING SPEECH WORRIES HOPPE

Running 100 or more means nothing in the life of Billiard Champion Willie Hoppe.

Racing the most difficult shot on the table doesn't get much of a rise out of the champion.

Meeting the world's greatest billiard players for the championship is just a day's work for Hoppe.

What task then put the nerve of Hoppe to a severe test?

Hoppe frankly admits that it is being called upon to make a speech. "To my way of thinking, the toughest job in all the world is to talk before a bunch of people. That is the reason why I always carry Charles Peterson as my partner. Talk is his first name. I merely do the bowling while Charley carries on the conversation for both of us."

TREMAINE GETS DECISION

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Carl Tremaine, Cleveland bantam weight, was awarded a referee's decision tonight over Johnny Curtin of Jersey City, when Curtin quit boxing in the sixth round of their twelve round match in Madison Square Garden, claiming he had no more fouls. Referee Peter Hager said he did not think a foul blow had been struck.

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., Feb. 16.—The University of Virginia boxing team defeated the Washington & Lee University fighters here tonight, winning five of the six matches.

De Valera Again Makes Statement

(By The Associated Press.)

DUBLIN, Feb. 16.—Eamon De Valera today with the suggestion that England should accept his alternative proposals to the Anglo-Irish treaty which he set forth in the Daily Express a year ago, and let the Irish people decide between these alternative proposals and the treaty.

"I am confident that the proposals I have put forward would not be resisted in arms, although some Republicans might not be satisfied with them," the Republican chief is quoted as declaring. "And I am willing at any time personally to sponsor these proposals as the basis for the honorable peace."

The alternative proposals referred to in above dispatches provided for association with the states of the British Commonwealth. One provision was that "for purposes of the association Ireland shall recognize his Britannic Majesty as the head of the association." While laying down an independent status for Ireland, the document was similar in many details to the text of the London treaty.

COTTON GROWERS EXCHANGE IN SESSION IN NEW ORLEANS

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 16.—The executive committee of the American Cotton Growers Exchange today held the first of a series of conferences here to discuss plans for the exchange and plans for the storage here of cotton by members of the organization.

Twenty members representing nine state cotton growing associations with a membership of 100,000 attended the conference.

The meeting was executive and no statement was given out following its adjournment.

Delegates were in attendance from Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina.

NO BAN ON NORWEGIAN LANGUAGE IN GEORGIA

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 15.—The Government of Georgia has asked Secretary of State S. C. McElendon, of Georgia, whether or not there is any legislation discriminating against the Norwegian language in this State.

Search disclosed the fact that the only languages barred in this State are: Profane, abusive, vile, offensive and a few others. But nothing was said of the Norwegian.

Those familiar with the Norwegian language stated that they did not think special legislation was needed to prevent its widespread use in Georgia.

PACKING HOUSE PRODUCTS

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Trade is not very satisfactory today in packing house products although a slight improvement is noted in cured meats. Export trade is dead.

DETROIT PRESENTS JACK McAULIFFE AS RIVAL OF JACK DEMPSEY

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 16.—Detroit has visions of another world's heavyweight champion pugilist. A big fellow who is at present being groomed to take the place once occupied in the realm of Istiana by its other native son, Tommy Burns.

The chap referred to is Jack McAuliffe, protégé of Mark Shaughnessy, who in the two years he has been in the game has come to the front with such rapid strides that he already looms up as one of the most dangerous men in the division.

McAuliffe has all the requisites that go to make a real fighter. He is a young giant, standing 6 feet 1 inch, and weighs 200 pounds. He is only 22 years old, but is a marvel of physical perfection. For a big fellow he is exceptionally fast, and he has the tremendous shoulders of the athlete and the tapering waist. His check is larger, when expanded, than that of Jess Willard, despite the fact that the former champion outweighs him by 50 pounds.

McAuliffe is also the possessor of an exceedingly long left arm, which is said by critics to be the fastest and sturdiest left in heavyweight circles. Certainly it is the longest, longer even than the well-known reach of Willard.

To date, McAuliffe has engaged in 16 bouts, of which all but one were won by the knockout route. The only man he failed to topple was Floyd Johnson, at present one of the leading contenders for Jack Dempsey's crown. McAuliffe couldn't hand Johnson a sleep-producing punch, but he gained the verdict in six rounds.

With the exception of Tom O'Neil, who managed to last seven sessions, most of McAuliffe's opponents have hit the canvas after two or three rounds of battling. All told, 221 bouts have averaged but a bit more than three rounds to the fight. A most remarkable record considering the class of men he has met, and the short time he has been at the game. No less an authority than Jim Corbett declares that McAuliffe seems certain to reach the heights of pugilistic fame within the next two years.

"I believe," says Corbett, "that, barring accidents, McAuliffe will be the champion of the world. He has everything necessary—youth, speed, boxing cleverness, strength, health and courage. He is the fastest and cleverest big man I have ever seen." And coming from a man like Corbett that's praise aplenty.

Shaughnessy, however, doesn't figure on making the mistake many others have made by matching his pupil with the top-notchers in a hurry. On the other hand, he plans on hiding his time, grooming McAuliffe, slowly and carefully, with a crack at the title as the inevitable goal.

PACKING HOUSE PRODUCTS

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Trade is not very satisfactory today in packing house products although a slight improvement is noted in cured meats. Export trade is dead.

RECURIT REFUSES BIG LEAGUE BERTH, SAYS HE'S NOT QUITE READY

(Special to The Bee.)

The major league is the goal of every ambitious ball player.

A chance to win a berth on a big league team is usually jumped at as the big opportunity.

It seldom happens that a player turns down the chance because he doesn't think he is ready to go to the grade in the majors.

Such a player is Glenn Wright, sensational young shortstop of the Kansas City team of the American Association. He wants only more year in the minors. Then he says he will be certain to deliver.

A number of major league clubs tried to purchase the youngster. Clarke Griffith of Washington is said to have offered $40,000 and three players for immediate delivery.

Wright is a product of Missouri University. He was sent to the brush a year ago for experience and last season played much of the year with Kansas City. He made a lot of mistakes early in the year, but he progressed rapidly and when the season closed he looked like the best young ball player developed in the big minor of the west for many years.

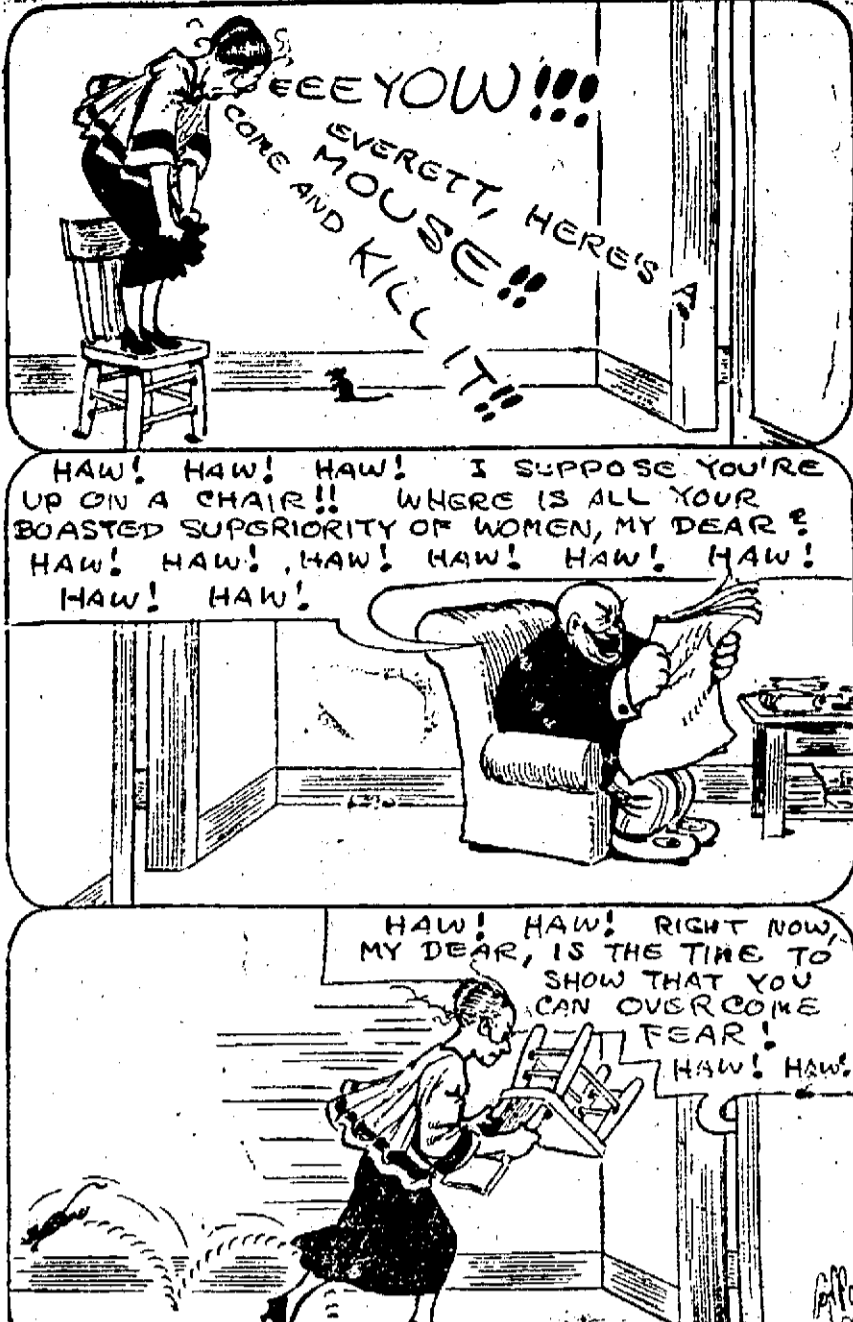

Clark Griffith watched Wright for almost two weeks and then made an offer that Ban Johnson says was $40,000 and three players, while George Muehlebach, owner of the Kansas City club, says it was only $25,000 and three players. In either case it was a lot of money and there was no junk about the offer.

When Wright heard of it he went to Muehlebach and told him he would rather remain in the association another year than to go to the majors.

GLENN WRIGHT.

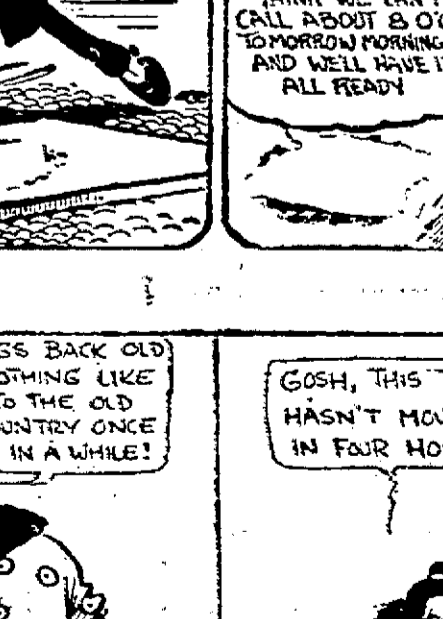

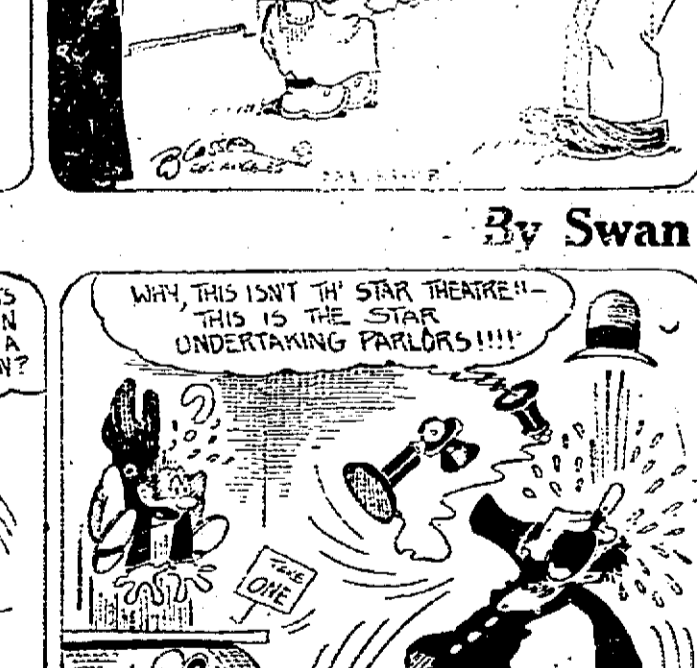

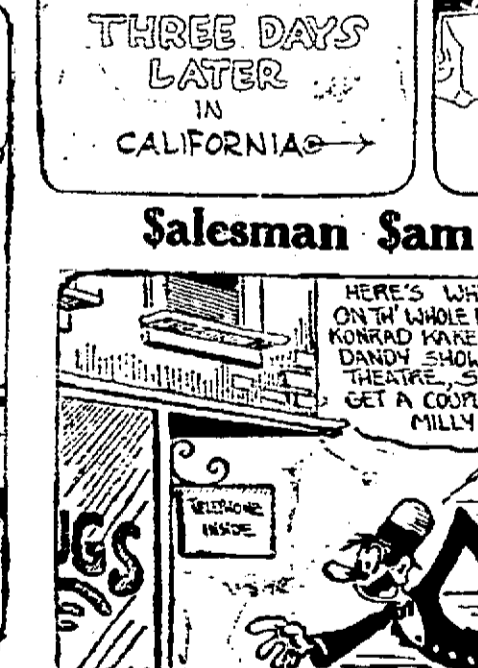

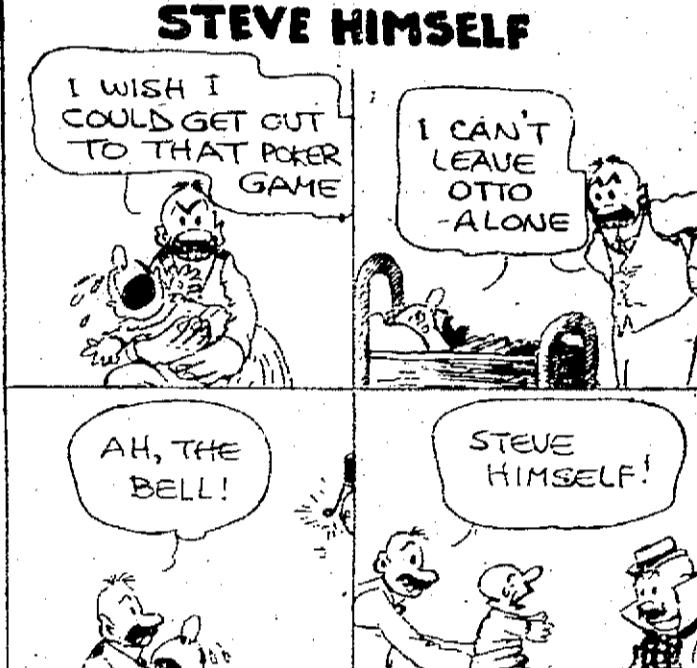

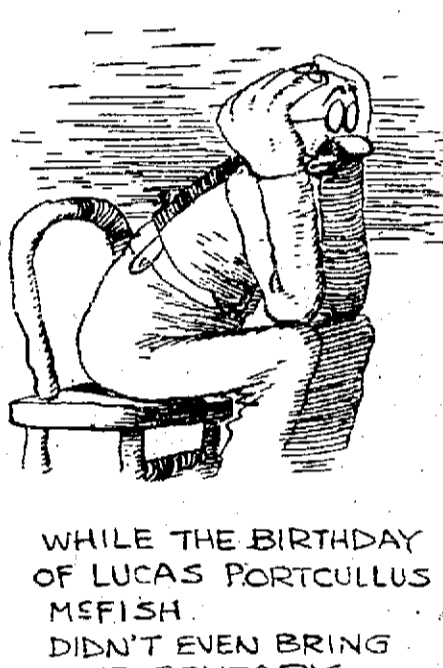

before he was ready. Muehlebach offered him a contract for 1923, which he signed and then turned down the Washington bid. Muehlebach believes Wright will play such sensational ball in the association the coming campaign that he will bring a record price next fall.
